Antioch Student Wins FFA Public Speaking Contest

William Dow Takes Gold Medal Honors at Elgin Competition Friday

William Dow, president of the Antioch Chapter of the Future Farmers of America, won the top honor in the F. F. A. Public Speaking contest at Elgin, Ill., last Friday evening.

Dow, who spoke on the subject, "A Practical Farm Philosophy," placed third in 1942; second in 1943 and receives the gold medal honor this year.

It is recalled that another Antioch student placed first in 1941 when Richard Hartnell took that honor. Elgin placed second and Harvard third in this year's contest.

Dow is to compete at the University of Illinois on April 6 for state honors. C. L. Kutil, Vocational Agriculture instructor, and Robert Edwards and Robert Carlson accompanied Dow to Elgin.

Two Children Are Victims of Fire at Round Lake Beach

Services Are Held Today in Grayslake for Ramona and Richard Friedrich

Suffocation caused the death of Ramona Friedrich, 8, and her brother, Richard, 5, Monday evening in a fire which destroyed their home at Round Lake Beach. It was revealed following a coroner's inquest held in L. G. Strang Funeral home here Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The bodies were removed to the Harold J. Strang Funeral parlors in Grayslake, where services were held this afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

The children's father, John Friedrich, 35, was at work in the Johnson Motor plant, Waukegan. Their mother, Gladys Friedrich, 32, had placed the children in their beds at 8 p. m. and had gone to the home of friends a block away. On attempting to enter the home when she returned, she was driven back by the fire. A neighbor, Lawrence Hamilton, was also unsuccessful in an attempt to enter.

Were in Garage
The bodies of the children were discovered in the garage which was attached to the house and which was saved by the efforts of the Round Lake fire department.

The children were found in a large wicker basket, where the little girl had apparently attempted to shield her brother from the fire. It was believed possible that had an attempt been made by the mother or Hamilton to enter through the garage the children might have been found in time to save their lives.

The origin of the fire has not been determined, according to Fire Chief William Redman of Round Lake, who estimated losses due to destruction of the house and furniture at $5,000. This sum was reported to be only partly covered by insurance.

Old Age Payments for February Show Decrease

Lake county payments for old age pensions during February amounted to $24,249, according to State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder. This sum was divided among 848 persons. Illinois payments totaled $4,114,012 to 90,557 beneficiaries. This represents a decrease from January, when 142,517 persons 65 years and older received $4,165,025.

Payments to 104 dependent children in Lake county during February totaled $3,473.

The state program for dependent children required a sum of $737,443 for 52,702 children.

Two Chicagoans Saved from Ice Water by Koukol

Kept Afloat by Channel Lake Youth Until Rescue Squad Arrives

When Joseph W. Koukol of Channel Lake goes ice fishing, he doesn't trifle. His "catch" Saturday night included two Chicagoans, George Schock, dentist, 524 S. Cicero avenue, and Albert Frauereder, 57, of 4826 Adams street, owner of a large Chicago dance hall, who had fallen through the ice and were kept afloat by Koukol until the Antioch Rescue squad could extricate them.

Koukol had driven down to the lake in an automobile belonging to his brother, John, to see what luck the Chicagoans were having.

Koukol decided to go ice fishing also. Meanwhile the automobile had stalled, and he had returned to get some worms for bait and also to get his own car to give the other vehicle a helpful push. Also meanwhile, the Chicago fishermen decided to stop fishing and started for shore.

On their way to their own automobile, they crashed through thin ice about 100 feet off-shore. Koukol found them struggling in the water and went to their rescue, crawling to the edge of the hole where they had broken through and helping to hold them up, while Frances, his wife, who had accompanied him, summoned the Rescue squad.

When the squad arrived a few minutes later, Koukol had been pulled into the water with the other two, one of whom was holding to his ankle and the other to his wrist, while he kept all afloat.

Using ropes and planks torn from a nearby pier, the squad pulled the men from the water and took them ashore over a "bridge" hastily constructed by jacking the planks on the ice, while the scene was dramatically illuminated by the two large floodlights carried on the truck.

The drenched victims were placed in electrically heated blankets and hurried to Koukol's resort, where they were placed in bed and given treatment for shock. The Chicagoans had recovered sufficiently Sunday to be removed to their homes.

Members of the Rescue squad who answered the call were Capt. Herman Holbek, who got up from a sick bed where he had been confined by a cold; First Lieut. Herman Rosling, Walter I. Scott, Lloyd Murrie, Bill Banell and Henry Rentner.

Legion Groups Pay Tribute to World War One Veteran

Drape Charters in Honor of Russell Mead of Channel Lake, Local Member

Charters of the Antioch American Legion post and auxiliary are being draped in tribute to the late Russell Mead, member of the Antioch post who was buried in the national cemetery at the Veterans' hospital in Milwaukee March 7.

Mead, a veteran of World War I, had been a medical patient at Woyne, Ill., since last August. His death occurred there March 5 and the body was taken to Milwaukee immediately afterward.

He had resided in Woodcrest subdivision at Channel Lake, where he owned a home for about 18 years. During recent years his sister, Lucy, of Chicago, had made her home with him a great deal of the time.

He was born 59 years ago, Jan. 18. After serving in the first world war he was a hospital patient for two or three years, afterward coming to Channel Lake.

A brother, in St. Louis, Mo., preceded him in death four or five years ago.

Mead was a charter member of Antioch post of the American Legion and one of its organizers. He filled a number of its offices over a period of several years.

Randall Youth Killed on Eve of Army Service

Oliver D. Reynolds, 20, Is Victim of Automobile Accident Saturday

Oliver Donald Reynolds, 20, son of Mrs. Ottilia Reynolds and the late Oliver Reynolds of Randall, died in the Burlington, Wis., hospital early Monday morning of injuries suffered in an accident late Saturday night.

Reynolds apparently lost control of his car on the highway half a mile west of Wilmot. The car climbed a five-foot embankment, bent two iron posts on the fence surrounding the Kronsche woods and sheared off two small trees before coming to a stop against a larger tree, 150 feet from the point where it left the highway.

The accident was discovered about 7 o'clock Sunday morning by O. V. Gustafson, Ingleside, driver of Scott's dairy milk truck, who summoned Herbert Peterson, tenant on the Kronsche farm, and Martin Jerde to assist him in removing Reynolds.

It was found necessary to remove a tree that was holding the car, and a portion of the car itself before they could reach him.

He was removed to the office of Dr. De Witt and taken from there to the Burlington hospital in the Kenosha county police squad car.

Reynolds, who was to have been inducted in the army Monday, never regained consciousness after the accident.

The body was removed to the Ehorn Funeral home in Richmond. Burial was to be in Mound Prairie cemetery.

Survivors, in addition to his mother, include a brother, Emmett, of Twin Lakes; Franklin, serving in the army overseas; and four sisters, Mrs. Helen McGregor, Racine; Mrs. Frances Schraeder, Milwaukee; Mrs. Caroline Harney, Detroit; and Mrs. Florence Muldre, Racine.

Ill. G.O.P. Leaders Express Optimism at Rally Saturday

Look for G. O. P. Landslide in Coming Elections, Say Lyons, Green

Optimism was the keynote of the Republican rally held in the circuit court room in Waukegan Saturday night with more than 500 persons, including Republican leaders from the Antioch and Lake Villa areas, in attendance.

Gov. Dwight H. Green and Richard J. Lyons, candidate for P. S. senator, headed the group of G. O. P. candidates whose Waukegan visit concluded a seven-week tour which has taken them into 97 counties to speak before 130,000 persons.

While Green and Lyons were the headlined speakers, talks were also given by Attorney General George F. Barrett; State Sen. Arnold P. Benson, who is opposing William G. Stratton, the present state treasurer, for the Republican nomination for secretary of state; Hugh W. Cross, lieutenant governor; Conrad F. Becker, candidate for state treasurer, and Earle Benjamin Searcy, candidate for clerk of the supreme court.

Marks Presides
William M. Marks of Lake Villa, state central committeeman and chairman of the Lake County Central committee, presided over the meeting and at a dinner served earlier in the Sky room of the Karcher hotel.

Following the rally, at which the belief was expressed by all that the coming elections would see a Republican landslide, the state candidates returned to their homes in various parts of Illinois to rest during the week-end. A series of meetings begun this week in Chicago and Cook county will claim the interest of various candidates until the primary election, April 11.

Postal Rates to be Increased March 26

An announcement of increase in postage rates on first class mail carried over rural routes, air mail and parcel post has been received this week by Postmaster Roy L. Kufalk from the postmaster-general's office in Washington, D. C. The increases will be effective on and after March 26.

The regulations state that first class mail for local delivery, "except that on which the rate under existing law is 1 cent for each ounce or fraction thereof and except post and postal cards" is to be "3 cents for each ounce or fraction of an ounce."

Air mail from one post office to another on the mainland of the United States, including Alaska, is to be eight cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce.

The rate of six cents for each half ounce or less as established on Oct. 2, 1942, will continue to apply to air mail sent to or by the armed forces of the United States overseas served through army and navy post offices.

The air mail rates to and from the continental United States and its possessions, as well as the rates applicable between such possessions will also continue unchanged.

The postage on parcel post is increased three per cent, fractions of one-half cent or more being computed as 1 cent, with a minimum increase of one cent on all parcels.

Lions Welcome Two New Members, Make Plans For Spring Festival

Maurice Reynolds, Lake Villa, chairman of the Antioch-Lake Villa township rationing board, Paul Sheldon, who operates the Sheldon chicken farm southeast of Antioch, were accepted into the membership of the Antioch Lions club at its meeting Monday evening in Charles Anderson's place on Highway 59.

The Lions voted to sponsor a spring festival and dance early in May, and committees were appointed for the affair.

Thirty were present to enjoy motion pictures of the American League baseball games, which were obtained through the courtesy of Irving Vaughan of Lake Villa, Chicago sports writer. Mr. Vaughan's part in making it possible for the club members to see the movies was greatly appreciated, and the evening was voted an exceedingly pleasant one.

A dinner was served at 7 o'clock under the charge of Mr. Anderson.

Charles Hoge, who is employed at the Antioch cafe, is ill at St. Therese hospital, where he was taken by the Antioch Rescue squad early this week.

Seeds for Victory—and After

The most essential spring planting in 1944 is the sowing of seeds for the greatest crop of jobs this nation will have enjoyed.

Certainly no American can quarrel with this objective, or with its parallel—that we must continue to wage unrelenting war to the total defeat of our enemies.

A second postulate is also generally conceded: that high postwar employment can be brought about only as all groups recognize their joint responsibility and opportunity in the solution of problems confronting our nation.

It is even more encouraging that these two steps toward job planning have now been followed by a third—formation of the National Postwar Conference by representatives of management, labor and agriculture. It was agreed that the groups endeavor to find "economic solutions to economic problems" and to apply the solutions through "democratic and representative processes."

We may well draw a breath of courage and hope for the future, in the spring of this tortured year, when we see such frank acknowledgment that no differences which divide men are as great as the common cause which unites them.

"Thrones of Wrong" Can Topple

"Once to every man and nation comes the moment to decide: In the strife of Truth with Falsehood, for the good or evil side."

"Truth forever on the scaffold, Wrong forever on the throne.

Yet that scaffold sways the future, and behind the dim unknown

Standeth God within the shadow, keeping watch above His own."

Many years have passed since James Russell Lowell wrote those lines in his poems, "The Present Crisis" and "Stanzas on Freedom," but they have a modern ring to them.

True it is that at recent times there seem to have been men and nations who preferred to choose the evil side, and it is likewise true that Wrong appears to have been strongly enthroned.

Of late, it has been observed that thrones (including those of dictators) can topple. That of Mussolini has long since dropped to the point where it is worth very little, even for salvage purposes.

While their military lines are still in pretty fair condition, it is not always certain that all is so well in the home lines of the two principal remaining Axis nations, Germany and Japan.

An apparently fairly well authenticated report was circulated some time ago that a high-ranking Japanese, a relative of the emperor, no less, had been kept a virtual prisoner in his home since before Pearl Harbor because of his known opposition to Japan's militaristic policy.

A former German military attache gives himself up to the Allied forces, and in his statement of his reasons asks—

"Is it high treason if one loves one's fatherland so much that one cannot stand by and see an unscrupulous clique ruining one's country?"

"That one cannot tolerate a weltanschauung (world philosophy) which grows like a cancer and destroys everything that is healthy in the body and fosters evil impulses."

"That one cannot stand by and see the glorious name of one's country being dishonored by the wickedness of its present rulers."

"That one cannot see its beauty suffering destruction as the inevitable result of their political greed and unscrupulousness while its blood senselessly soaks foreign soil."

"National socialism seduces our youth to loss of faith, to brutality, and to lack of respect for moral values."

"It has lied to us for twenty years. It has abused our confidence. It has embezzled our property in senseless expenditures on behalf of the party and in disastrous political speculations."

"It has suppressed our spirit. It has made us dishonest through fear. It has outraged our personal liberties through the compulsory control of the exercise and place of our professions, prohibitions of changes of employment, compulsory membership in organizations and the like."

"We are not threatened with slavery from without, but from within our own country. The ideals of the enemy we oppose in arms are nearer to our own than those of our own government."

If we have ever doubted that right will prevail, if we have ever felt that all sacrifices in the name of truth, honor and liberty were in vain, let us read these words of one who has been our enemy and take heart. If there is one Japanese, if there is one German, who still retains faith that we are for the right, there must be others—and we do not face a truly united enemy. But we ourselves can be human and faulty though we are, united in the cause of truth, liberty and honor, not only for ourselves, but for others.

The tasks facing us are perhaps harder than any others that have faced the American people since pioneer days. Perhaps in some ways, at some times, they may be even harder. The pioneers lived only one day at a time—but often it seems that we must live many days in one.

But we have just enough confidence in the American people, and in others throughout the world who share their ideals and their hope for a better world in the future, to think that with the help and co-operation of all—it can be done.

Leave Sinking Ship There are many sailors who will swear that a rat will not remain on any ship that is going to sink, but will invariably go ashore prior to the last sailing. In the days of wooden ships and iron men, leaks were obstacles with which a ship master had almost constantly to contend. When the seams started to open and the water slowly entered the hull, the rats, cozily installed in the hold, would be the first to discover the situation and would hastily migrate ashore in search of more comfortable quarters.

How Giving You More Makes Insurance Cost Less

Average fire rates reduced 40% by voluntary services ... while only 2½¢ per premium dollar go into profits

FREE! 42 ways to keep your home from burning. Fire prevention specialists have prepared interesting guides and checklists. Among them are: hints that might save your family's lives if fire does strike... ways to spot fire hazards in your job or business. They're FREE—ask us for your copy today!

"What other necessity can you think of that has actually cut its own cost to you—by giving you more than you expected? Every day, every home and family, every vital war industry, every community, is safeguarded by services maintained voluntarily by the leading fire insurance companies I represent. And because services like those listed below have steadily reduced fire losses, they have also reduced the cost of your own fire insurance!"

FIRE PREVENTION ENGINEERS. These experts inspect our cities and towns—map fire hazards—check water supply, fire-fighting equipment—help to plan fire-safe schools—aid authorities in keeping you safe.

ARSON FIGHTERS. These investigators track down firebugs—help authorities to put an average of 400 a year behind bars.

UNDERWRITERS' LABORATORIES. These scientists test building materials, wiring—radios, irons, vacuum cleaners—anything that might expose you to fire, shock or explosion hazards.

"And you benefit in dollars, too. In 30 years, such services have lowered both the rate of fire loss and the average cost of fire insurance by over 40%! Of each premium dollar, an average of 97½¢ has gone to pay fire losses, taxes and other necessary operating costs. Only 2½¢ has remained as 'profit'—to assure payment of any unusually heavy future losses."

GARFIELD R. LEAF

REPUBLICAN CANDIDATE FOR CORONER

Primary Election . . . Tuesday, April 11, 1944

SYNOPSIS

CHAPTER I: The story of the famous 19th and 7th Bombardment Groups, of Lieut. Col. Frank Kurtz and his Fortress crew in the "Iron Horse" air campaign that saved the day for the United Nations in the Southwest Pacific. Lieut. Kurtz, who was pilot of the Fortress, known as "The Snake" which escaped from Clark Field, in the Philippines, tells of that fatal day when the Japs struck the plane to the wreck of Old 99, finds eight of his crew lying in an irregular line.

CHAPTER II: Lieut. Kurtz tells how orders to camouflage Old 99 were countermanded; instead they were to load bombs. Then he was ordered to look the bombs, reload with cameras and rush the camouflage. Preparations made for taking pictures of Formosa. "Someone shouts, 'Look at that pretty navy formation.' The 'navy formation' happens to be a flight of Jap planes.

CHAPTER III: Bombs hit the mess hall. The Japs move off. They hear another hum. "P. P. P.," they think, but they prove to be Zeros coming in from the direction of Corregidor. The boys duck back into their bunks.

CHAPTER IV: The pilots are given their targets and towering above the group is Colin Kelly, about to head out on his first mission. "Hurricane" is chased by Japs in his P-40. He meets Lieut. Russ Church and they battle in the air. Church falls to return. The death of Colin Kelly.

CHAPTER V: Formosa are kept in the air to save them from the Japs. Through some mistake someone opens fire on them. Japs begin photographing the place. No longer safe to sleep in the barracks, the boys are moved into a corn field. With no fighters left to defend them, evacuation begins. Lieut. Kurtz tells of last plane trip out in a patched-up plane. Japs land light tanks at Apari. Squadron commander Major Gibson fails to return from mission. U. S. forces flee from Clark Field to Mindanao.

CHAPTER VI: Navigator Harry Schaezel tells of a fight with Zeros in which Shorty Wheeler takes part. He lands in a rice paddy and is surrounded by Filipinos. The crew boys an outigger canoe and sail to the Isle of Panay. Later they take off for Australia.

CHAPTER VII: Lieut. Kurtz takes up the story again. He describes the hot, dry Christmas day in Australia, and the U. S. fliers spot it. A report comes in over CW radio. It was from Schaezel saying he'd be in after dark with one bomber. Lieut. Kurtz gets in his plane and Gen. Brecken lands on the field and the boys are summoned to a meeting.

CHAPTER VIII

"Next day we headed out over the Java Sea toward Borneo and, following instructions, found a likely looking river, dropping down to low altitude, and began following it back upcountry; and then, just on schedule, we made out Samarinda Field in the late-afternoon sunlight in spite of its camouflage. And it was the best job we'd ever seen, better than Malang. We'd had practically no time for camouflage at all in the Philippines. But here the Dutch had hewed this field out of the teeming jungle—uprooted the stumps, leveled it off, planted it with grass, and then covered it with wooden sawhorses that would knock the stuffing out of any plane that tried to land through them. Only when you circled the field, out came a crowd of natives on the run—I suppose they were wild men of Borneo the Dutch had tamed. They would remove the sawhorses only from that particular runway you were supposed to use, and the minute your wheels touched the ground they'd start recovering the runway behind you. They didn't intend that the Japs should sneak in and take that field by surprise. We took our hats off to the Dutch for that job; they'd done everything to defend their islands that any people can do with its bare hands.

"No sooner had we taxied up to the revetment than up came a pretty blonde Dutch nurse in a starched white Red Cross uniform, looking anxiously at us as we climbed out, just in case we'd been hit by Zeros on the way in and some of the boys were wounded.

"Right away we went to pilots' meeting, where we lined out the mission for Davao Bay. We knew it was a long pull out there and back, with the target itself more heavily defended than anything south of Formosa. Also, it made you mad to think that this heavily defended Jap target was in our own Philippines, where our boys were still fighting. It was even on the same island of Mindanao with old Del Monte Field.

"So why put it off? Let's eat and then get going out there where we can paste them. The crews were putting some final touches on the motors and gassing the big brutes up, so we taxied out from our dispersal places and were in the air and gathering into formation about one o'clock.

"The Japs, we knew, seldom flew at night, but we were flying in a V of V's. Jim Connally, George Schaezel, and I made up the third flight, which, I might point out, is the dirty spot, because in those days you could expect most Jap attacks from the rear. Then we started that long climb for altitude—which means safety for the Fortress, a hell of a big and vulnerable target near the ground.

"But while we are still climbing, George Schaezel is lagging. Engine trouble, we later found out. George drops out entirely, which leaves Jim Connally and me alone to handle the dirty spot.

"Presently the formation levels off, and then ahead of us we see an enormous black mass of weather in what is left of the dwindling twilight. It's laid out horizontally right across our path—starting at about 12,000 feet, it seems to go on up forever.

"So what do we do? Our orders are to keep in formation, so we can all hit Davao at the same time, and not go over dispersed at intervals, where the Zeros, rising at the first alarm, can slaughter the stragglers. "But if we go into this cloud bank, maybe it goes on for miles and we'll lose each other inside of it, and never be able to assemble for the attack.

"The leader decides we'll try to go around it, so, turning, we fly parallel to it. But it seems endless, and after flying for forty-five minutes, we see that in this attempted detour we've wasted precious gasoline—our margin of safety to get to the target and get home is down to almost zero.

"Which means we can't go on, although it's heartbreaking to turn back with bomb bays and guns still loaded and quite a bit of gas in the tanks. Better come back now though for a fresh start than hit the target and then drop into the sea on the way home.

"We returned to Samarinda, landed, gassed up, and then without any rest or sleep started to take off again for Davao at midnight. This time we were sure we wouldn't miss.

"Again we run into thick fog," went on Frank, "when we go up next night. My co-pilot Collin and I fly alternately—our eyes smarting and streaming from the strain and staring through the windshield at those formation lights of the planes ahead, not daring to lose sight of them for fear we will then be lost and alone in the night. As dawn breaks I see Broadhurst's Fortress by the number on its tail. It is too late to go on into Davao, just two of us, so we turn and start mournfully back to Samarinda.

"At one o'clock in the morning we again took off on the long flight to the target—between four and five hours. For the first few hours we were lucky. The clouds were well stratified and we flew between two layers of them, so we didn't have to fly both weather and instruments. "This time we arrive at the previously agreed point where we are to make that 120-degree turn and come directly in on Davao, and as we swing up and over for that sharp bank, I get my only glimpse of the target, which ordinarily the pilot never sees in detail. From where he sits he can only see the sky and the distant horizon ahead. It's the bombardier who can look straight down and a little ahead, who pulls the plane in over that tiny pinpoint to be attacked. But now I'm about to see it for myself—just one look when my wing is cocked high in the air. Oh, please, God, leave the target open! Let there be no ground fog over the city or the bay—burn that mist away with the dawn sun, so we won't have to salvo in the sea and go home.

"And then I get my only glimpse out of the tilted side window, the city still asleep, the upper Bay of Davao silver in the first dawn light, and then—oh, lovely, lovely sight!—a big boat sitting well offshore surrounded by a protecting circle of destroyers, all of them motionless, not a wisp of smoke coming from a funnel. We've caught them asleep with no steam up, the Japs are snoring—like so many Pearl Harbor brass-hats—this is what we've been waiting for!

"But now comes a change. Over my interphones I hear Stone, bombardier of the lead plane, calling to Combs, who is leading us.

"Do you mind if we change over, sir?" he asks. "I see our real target now."

"We've now roared in almost to our bomb-release line, but Combs agrees. We bank up and change over, now heading apparently for lower Davao Harbor.

"Peering out of the window on the bank, I get one glimpse of it and now understand the reason for the change—the most tremendous concentration of ships I ever saw in my life. Everything: big boys, cruisers of all sizes, transports, submarines, destroyers, gunboats, bunched in there dotting the water so thick we couldn't possibly miss—but now we're on our bomb run, and I'm steadying the plane down to go on the PDI. (Pilot's direction instrument.) To you it's just one of many wavering needles on this big instrument panel. But it's hooked up with the bomb sight in the compartment below. The bombardier has his sensitive fingers on those controls, keeping the target ahead framed in the cross hairs. Every time he moves them a fraction of an inch, the change is registered in that PDI needle on my instrument panel. I can't see the target, of course, but if I follow the needle I can't miss it.

"Now our nerves are tightening up. I glance fleetingly ahead and see Cecil Combs in the lead plane, going over the target. Since we're bringing up the rear, Cecil is about nine miles away, and his big Fortress looks about the size of a wren. That sky ahead is filled with dirty, soot-gray ack-ack puffs, making a spotty layer above him. The Japs on the ground have cut their fuses just a little too long to pick off Cecil, but I know that in a very few seconds more I'm going to get a closer view of this ack-ack. I pray Cecil's bombardier won't miss, although he's too far ahead for us to see his bombs leave. 'Damn it, Stone, now lay 'em down the alley, boy.' But that kid won't miss; he's one of the best bombardiers in the business. Now he's laying his train, Pearl Harbor style, on those Japs, who are lying there without steam up—only again I'm raging. Here we are, with a Pearl Harbor setup for a target, but only ten of us, while the Japs hit Hawaii with many scores.

"My navigator has laid aside his tools in the compartment below, and now comes crawling up through the trapdoor to squeeze back through the bomb bays, between the rows of bombs and gas tanks, into the radio compartment, where he'll man a machine gun against Jap fighters.

"There's no interphone talking now except between gunners. We've broken radio silence—the hell with it now. We see them down there and of course they see us up here. Anything we can do to bring the formation in right is okay. So now the earphones crackle with the excited cross talk of machine-gunners, all peering out their windows on the lookout for Zeros.

"I take a quick glance out of the side window to make sure I'm not ahead of Jim. I've got to stay even with him so my gunners can protect his tail and his gunners can protect mine. And I wonder how in hell that first flight has done, but don't dare look up to see if Combs has turned off the target yet. I must stay glued to that needle—my co-pilot is glued to it too, giving me the corrections on my run.

"It must be as carefully timed as a violin duet. My bombardier below there needs the gentle touch of a violinist on his controls and I must follow with equally gentle pressures on the rudder. If he gets excited, and in correcting an error, moves his controls too far, then, following that weaving needle, I'll push a pedal too far and we'll throw the Fortress out of her groove.

"I'm almost praying he won't do this. 'Come on, boy,' I mutter to him, 'don't let it run down your leg, now—don't overcorrect!'

"Now I take the risk of just one glance away from the needle through the windshield to see the second flight just going in on its bomb-release line. The ack-ack fire, which for the first flight was too high, is now breaking below the second flight. That means they'll see they've bracketed us, and next time they make a change in fuses down below—about the time our third flight is going over—they'll have us square.

"Just then I hear a gunner shouting over the interphones:

"Fighters, coming up at nine o'clock! I can't see them yet—wonder where they're coming from. Maybe off a carrier. Then why didn't we make a run on that? Maybe Cecil did, and missed. Maybe my bombardier sees it and we are making our run on it. No, I think, they're probably off the ground. The Japs have probably got the countryside around Davao laced with landing strips by this time—the enterprising little so-and-sos.

(Lay your watch down on the table in front of you. At twelve o'clock the hour hand points straight ahead. At three o'clock it points to the right. At nine o'clock it points to the left.)

"Now my own gunners are talking. 'They're coming up in a long, slow spiral, like hornets out of a nest—coming up so straight you can even see their bellies. I get the first rumble of the antiaircraft fire as the ship flutters. A quick glance ahead shows the puffs are right on our level now.

"Then I get mad again. Because it said in our schoolbooks that the Jap antiaircraft fire couldn't hit anything above 18,000. Here we are, laying it to them from almost twice that altitude, and they're putting it right back up to us.

"Then I get a feeling of exultation. Because down under us and not far ahead now is that Jap Pearl Harbor setup—big ships with stone-cold boilers. Now they must be running frantically around the engine rooms trying to stoke the fires and get steam up, knowing while they're hurrying that it's too late—just as they knew at Pearl Harbor, but all you can do is hurry, so you do it anyway. Well, we've got them where we wanted them, even if there are only ten of us—got them where they had Old 99 just about a month ago.

"Then I jump, for the ship quivers from a burst of fire from our own .50-caliber guns. Then quickly another and another. Zeros coming up, banking to come in and rake us with their fire? But when nothing is said of them over the interphones, I know my boys are only firing little bursts to warm the oil in their guns, making sure the guns won't jam when we are really hit by fighters.

"Suddenly the plane's nose lurches upward and to the left, and hardly have I straightened her out onto even keel when she tries to make another twist. It's the blast from the ack-ack fire—invisible billows of air sent out by each explosion, and now it's as rough as though we were bouncing in a Model T over a Missouri dirt road three days after a rain.

"At my side my co-pilot, who has been looking out through the windshield, hollers: 'Jim's bombs are on their way.' I don't dare take my eye from the needle.

"Just then I get the click from my own bombardier. Our bomb-bay doors are open now—I feel the slight drag on the plane, and with my rudder correct for it, and then that double click on the interphone which means he's telling me: 'Ship level, Frank, please.' And I don't answer except with my feet so firmly but gently on the rudders, giving him that absolutely level bombing platform he has to have if we're to hit the target.

"And at last the precious amber light glows on my instrument panel, which means he's now actually flicking the bombs off, one by one, and I keep my feet so softly on the rudders that they hardly touch, so as not to give the tiniest sideways throw to the bombs. Up in the cockpit we hold our breath. We know down below the bombardier is flicking them off—four 600-pounders at half-second intervals.

"Then as he calls, 'Bombs away!' at that split second we quit working for the Government and begin to work for our wives and families. Because that means the last bomb has left the plane and we can now close the bomb-bay doors, and our objective is now only to get home safely.

Treat Pink Eye

In the early stages of pink eye in cattle, confinement and simple medication, such as washing out the eyes with a weak salt solution or dusting boric acid in the eyes, will suffice. The exact cause of the disease is not known, but bacteria are sometimes used to prevent and treat affected animals. These remedies should be used under the direction of a veterinarian.

Scilly's Trademark

Menacing Mount Etna, Europe's highest active volcano, is Scilly's trademark. Eruptions that occur every five or six years often build off a few feet of its height or build it higher. The snowy peak reaches between 10,750 and 10,850 feet above sea level. The fertile slopes are striped and dotted with green vineyards and fruit trees, making Etna typical of the Sicilian mountains that have "snow on their shoulders" and orange blossoms in their laps.

News of the boys

To say, without sounding like bragging, to tell the truth, I was pretty ignorant (as I found out) as to army life. It's quite alright, though. We have a very nice camp museum, movie houses, private club to play pool and write or read, post exchange where we get necessary articles, nice churches, very nice sermons, sports equipment and playing fields, swimming pool. This is a very modern camp and well kept. I think that after a fellow gets used to the army life he would appreciate being here."

T/S Edward C. Bauman sends notice of a change of APO and greetings on behalf of Bob Hunt, Don Homan, Edgar Simonson.

Surgical Magic
Helps MaimedWorst War Disfigurements
Are Being Remedied by Plastic Experts.

EAST GRINSTEAD, ENG. — An American flier comes to Queen Victoria hospital here minus a nose, and goes out with an even better-looking one fashioned from his hip.

Men who have lost their eyelids and weep constantly as a result, stop crying here. They are fitted with brand new lids made from the inside skin of their arms.

Miracles of plastic surgery are taking place in this remote English village under the direction of a New Zealander, Dr. Archibald H. McIndoe, who spent ten years studying at the Mayo clinic in Rochester, Minn.

More than 7,000 operations have been performed since the hospital was opened four years ago. Americans, through the British War Relief society, have just contributed large funds to build a new operating clinic. At the moment, operations are being carried out in the drafty children's ward.

Most of the patients here are men who have looked in the mirror and said:

"I'll never be able to work again or marry. I won't even be able to face other people."

Courage Is Restored.

Yet, after one or two operations, they are amazed to find that they have enough confidence to go, always with another patient, some, awaiting further surgery, may have wire cages on the lower half of their faces instead of jaws. They may be facing 25 more operations extending over two years. Yet many have been offered post-war jobs by the factory management.

Fliers, with hands green from burns, with blackened faces, receive new skin. Half a missing hand is made out of thick skin from the stomach, a part of the body that has a good blood supply. New eyebrows are made from a patient's hair. Noses come from hips, because the hip is easy to get at and is easily carved.

This hospital owes a great deal to an American physician, Dr. E. C. Podgett of Kansas City, Mo., who invented a skin-removing machine that slices flesh thinner than tissue paper.

Men go about town here in all stages of plastic surgery. Yet nobody stares. This quaint old village is in the front line of the war. The Battle of Britain was fought overhead and the people are used to war casualties. That's one reason it was selected as the site of the hospital.

Nurses Are the Best.

The nurses here not only are the best in their line, but also the best-looking girls to be found. At first, authorities feared they might hesitate at sight of the patients. They not only nurse them, however; they marry them. There have been eight weddings since the hospital opened.

Flight Lieut. Holebrook Mahn of Denver, Colo., found new legs here; as well as a prospective wife. He had spent 14 hours in a dinghy in the North sea. Today he is engaged to the Waaf orderly who gave him his saline baths.

Somewhat this hospital manages to be a cheery place. Patients share the same ward so they won't brood in solitude over their disfigurement. They can always find someone else who is worse off. They room the town, going to dances and drinking beer at the pub. An RAF sergeant lives with them as their father confessor, and, if necessary, their companion on "binges." They can have beer at their mess; and they wear their regular uniforms instead of dreary "hospital blue." They play billiards and cricket and read, and discarded novels that people have given away to clear their bookshelves, but current best sellers.

'Machine Gun' Aids Fight

On Rust and Corrosion

PITTSBURGH. — A scientific attack on rust and corrosion is being carried out by a Pittsburgh research chemist with the aid of a vacuum tube "machine gun."

The new weapon, an electronic diffraction camera, is being used by Dr. Earl A. Gulbransen of the Westinghouse research laboratories, to investigate the atomic structure of coatings which "grow" on steel, aluminum and copper when these metals are exposed to air or corrosive chemicals.

The work of the Westinghouse research chemist is leading the way toward longer-wearing bearings and cylinders for airplane and automobile engines, better tin plate in which the tin will cling more tightly to the steel underneath, and cheaper methods of making stainless steel.

Sanchez Gets 300 Goats,

'Counting His Neighbor's

LOS ANGELES. — Three hundred goats were bequeathed to Jesus Sanchez, who petitioned to be made executor of his beneficiary's estate.

Neighbor Francis Godde opposed the petition, saying he wanted to be named administrator and deal properly with the goats—which had ruined the pasture for his cows and were "obnoxious and abhorrent."

Superior Judge Thomas C. Gould named Sanchez.

The Berghoffs bowled a high series of 2819, with F. Stahmer accounting for 822 points, to mow down the Nielsens, 3-0, in the Major league. Second high game was 1018.

Henry Pape's 590 helped Bussle's to a 2-1 win over the Lumber Co., and Lou Lasco accounted for 554 points in the Recreation's 3-0 sweep against Terlap.

DON BAUER SCORES FOR BUSINESS MEN

In the Business league, Don Bauer helped out Anderson's Radio to the tune of 568 in a three-game win; the Lions club and Milling Co. split, 2 and 1, as did Keulman Bros. and J. Meyer.

Pregrenzers succeeded in taking two games away from Gus and Betty's in spite of Charles Halling's 550 for the latter. Friedries and Pickards had a 2-1 tally. Doc Hays' team owed a part of its 2 game lead over Hans and Mabels to the 590 rolled by Ed Carney.

TAVERN LEAGUE HAS SOME GOOD SCORERS

Several of the Tavern league bowlers were in the groove—and kept out of the alleys. The Pasadena Gardens (2) had Pat Miller making a 598, while Nielsens (1) had George Miller sharing honors with a 581.

Bluhm's and Friedle's were 2-1; the Recreation and Sorenson's 3-0. Russo of Little America stacked up 610, to assist in holding Thompson's down to one game.

Halling's took 2 games from Bud's and Anderson's 2 from Hanneke's. Elroy Anderson, 562, was high man for Anderson's.

A. ROGERS IS HIGH IN LADIES' LEAGUE

A Rogers of the Antioch Cafe was high for the Ladies' Major with 487, with M. Walsh, 466, second on the same team. Bud's, however, succeeded in taking two games from the Cafe, thanks partly to L. Keulman's 463.

Bluhm's took 2 games from Snow-white and the Recreation 2 from the Roundup. J. Huff, 448, was high for Recreation and D. Bauer, 450 for the Roundup.

In the Ladies' Handicap league (March 8), D. Ferris, 471, was high for Pickard's (2); with U. Nelson, 454, leading Sinclair (1). Johnson's and the Pantry were 2-1; and Slide Inn and Anderson's, also. Chalking up on impressive score for the Slide Inn were L. Fernandez, 465; L. Keulman, 462, and K. Keulman, 454.

Washington, D. C.—The War Department expects to have all the volunteers out of Cuba by the middle of April. There are five transports to carry the men, and it is calculated that they will be able to bring all the 25,000 troops home in the next five weeks. The majority will be brought to Savannah to be mustered out.

The Eighth Illinois, which left Santiago yesterday, will come to Newport News on the Chester and be transferred from the lighters to a special train which will be in waiting and hurried through to Chicago, where they will be mustered out.

There is considerable smallpox at Newport News and the War Department will take no risk of imperiling the men by allowing them to stop in the place. It is necessary to land at Newport rather than at Savannah because the Chester draws too much water to enter the harbor at the latter place.

Monday evening the town was alive with Woodmen from the home and other neighboring camps, the occasion being a reception tendered the members of Lotus camp by the ladies of Olson camp, Royal Neighbors of America.

Initiatory services were held in the presence of over fifty visiting members from the camps at Wilmet, Trevor, Bristol, Russell, Waukegan, Lake Villa and Grayslake.

Pursuant to notice, the annual township caucus was held Saturday and was one of the largest ever held in the town, some 220 votes being cast. Nominations included A. N. Tiffany, supervisor; C. M. Confer, town clerk; Herman Bock, assessor; Walter Taylor, collector; A. J. Felter, highway commissioner; W. S. Westlake, George H. Kennedy, J. A. Thain, township committee.

The McHenry Plaindealer came to our exchange table last week under the editorial management of James Walsh, formerly of the Harvard Herald force.

Patch Silo

It is foolhardy to fill any silo without first patching cracks or leaks in walls and doors, because small amounts of leakage can cause large amounts of rotten feed. Check the tightness of steel hoops on standing wood-stave silos, and the walls for cracks before you think of filling.

For a ship of 27,000 tons it takes about as much paint as it would for all the houses in a town of 4,500.

WEEKLY NEWS ANALYSIS

Yanks Step Up Pressure on Jap Bases; Truman Committee Asks Greater Leeway For Manufacture of Civilian Products; Daytime Bombings Rock Nazi Factories

(EDITOR'S NOTE: When opinions are expressed in these columns, they are those of Western Newspaper Union's news analysts and not necessarily of this newspaper.)
Released by Western Newspaper Union.

England—War and peace provide striking contrast in this English pasture, where sheep stray amid U. S. air corps supply depot set in open field.

PACIFIC:

Pincer Closes

Giving the harassed Japs no rest, U. S. forces shifted the impetus of their Southwest Pacific attack back to New Britain, increasing the menace of the once important air and naval base of Rabaul, feeder point for enemy units throughout the region.

With new Yankee landings on the northern coast of New Britain and eastward advances by other doughboys operating from Arawe on the southern shores, General MacArthur was slowly closing his pincer on Rabaul, although rugged jungle still rose before U. S. forces meeting stubborn opposition from the entrenched enemy.

While General MacArthur increased his pressure on the Japs in New Britain, other U. S. forces tightened their grip on the Admiralty Islands along the supply route to Rabaul. In mid-Pacific, Admiral Chester Nimitz' naval airmen continued to pound Jap defense installations in the Caroline Islands, site of the enemy's Pearl Harbor of Truk.

CONGRESS:

Cut Appropriations

In an economical mood, the house appropriations committee sliced 91 million dollars off federal agencies' requests for additional funds to carry on operations for the year ending June 30, but it did approve a total of 500 million dollars.

Biggest reduction of 22½ million dollars was made in the Federal Works agency's plea for 150 million dollars for community facilities, and of the sum finally voted, only 4 per cent was allowed for administration expenses. More than 17 million dollars was lopped off National Housing administration's request for 25 million dollars for war housing. The Commodity Credit corporation's bid for 39½ million dollars for restoring its capital was turned down, committee members pointing to its 25 million dollar balance as of December 31 and authority to borrow.

Only the Veterans administration fared well, 30 million dollars being appropriated for construction of hospital facilities, following Brig. Gen. Frank Hines' statement that by 1975 a peak load of 300,000 beds would be filled, 207,000 by vets of this war and 91,400 from other wars.

RUSSIA:

Fiins Dicker

While Russian General Meretskov's armies drove against the Germans' Estonian and Latvian defenses, Finland bargained with Moscow for more agreeable peace terms, including retention of all the territory won during the present war and right of the Nazis to withdraw their troops from the country.

Crossing the Narva river, the Russ penetrated into Estonia, while farther south, Red armies were converging on the important railroad and highway center of Pskov, gateway to Latvia.

Almost 600 miles to the south, the Russians drove into the flank of the Germans' long front to the rear of Red forces in old Poland, again seeking to whittle down the Nazis' position to prevent them from using it as a springboard for possible attack.

MISCELLANY:

ACCIDENT: A freak railroad accident took the lives of 500 Italians, who were illegally riding on a freight train, trying to get home from north to south Italy. The refugees died of carbon monoxide poisoning from the locomotive's smoke, when the train stalled on a tunnel grade.

HOSPITALS: There are 14 per cent more patients in American hospitals now than in 1940.

VETS BONUS:

Ask $4,500

To make up the differences between war workers' and servicemen's wages, five veterans organizations called on congress to pass bonus legislation now, awarding military personnel $4 a day for overseas and $3 a day for home duty.

Maximum payments under the plan would total $4,500 for overseas and $3,500 for home duty, with all compensation above $300 being in tax-free, non-salable government bonds, bearing a flat 3 per cent interest for the first five years and compounded 3 per cent interest for the next five years.

No sooner had the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Army and Navy Union, Disabled American Veterans, Military Order of the Purple Heart and Regular Veterans' association pressed for the bonus than seven congressmen scrambled to introduce legislation embodying their proposals.

EUROPE:

Clearing Path

Mighty Allied aerial armadas roared over Europe, striking hard to cripple Nazi industry and soften the invasion path, while fighting flared on the muddy Italian front.

Drubbed by 25,830 tons of bombs dropped by the RAF, Berlin felt the full weight of hundreds of U. S. Flying Forts and Liberators in record daylight raids, which left the German capital smoldering. The American forays were not made without cost, however, scores of bombers being shot down by waves of Nazi fighter planes rising to the attack from the coast inland, and thick walls of anti-aircraft fire in the target areas.

Clinging stubbornly to their Anzio beachhead, U. S. and British troops continued to ward off persistent German thrusts at their lines, while near Cassino to the southeast, Allied forces took up the assault against the enemy's mountain bastions in heavy mud.

Latest domestic to enter the 1944 race for President is Mrs. Nora E. Gaver, 53, of Los Angeles, Calif. A woman of accomplishment who built the two-room house she lives in, Mrs. Gaver will campaign for $30 monthly payments to everybody from birth to death, and no taxes.

WAR ECONOMY:

Truman Committee Reports

Letting the chips fall where they may, Senator Harry Truman's investigating committee praised America's war production effort, asked that greater leeway be given to manufacturing civilian goods and criticized loose disposition of surplus war material.

Since 1941, the committee reported, the U. S. produced arms and equipment for 10,000,000 men; 133,061 airplanes; 746 warships; 20,450,000 tons of Liberty ships; 1,567,940 military trucks, and 23,867 landing craft.

To speed civilian production, the committee urged: 1. Permit use of metals not needed for the war; 2. Allow manufacture outside of manpower shortage areas, and 3. Let factories without war work operate.

Citing the army's sale of $1,721,136 worth of new machine tools for junk for $26,924 in Detroit recently, the committee called for creation of a special U. S. agency to handle disposal of surplus material.

PIPE LINE

The proposed pipeline across Arabia, to be constructed with federal funds to provide the American and Allied armies with petroleum in the Mediterranean area, would create many international complications, spokesmen for the American oil industry charge. According to a report by the Petroleum Industry war council, the plan to run the 1,000-mile pipeline "through three foreign nations" was "an invitation to international incidents rife with the germs of another war."

GREAT BRITAIN:

Coal Strikes

Far, far across the sea, Great Britain came in for its share of coal strikes, too, when 12,000 Monmouthshire miners walked out and another 2,500 in Durham slowed production over dissatisfaction with piece-work rates.

Ruffled by the Durham slowdown which has cut coal output from 15,000 to 5,000 tons weekly, the government threatened to replace the miners and put them to work in other pits.

Piece-workers balked when no adjustment was made in their rates after other miners were granted new minimum wages of $20, $3.25 over the old level. Piece-workers claimed they could only raise their minimum by 50 or 75 cents under existing rates, not making it worthwhile for them to try harder.

CANADA:

Price Control

Tussling against wartime inflation trends, Canada spent over 115 million dollars from December, 1941, to December, 1943, for subsidies to keep down import and domestic prices.

Higher labor costs, expanded farm income, expensive substitutes and transportation charges are among the factors tending to rub against price ceilings.

Although the supply situation promises to brighten, there are growing shortages of children's clothing and footwear. The lumber and pulpwood industry continue to suffer from pressing manpower scarcities.

FARM CO-OPS:

Must Report Finances

Approximately 300,000 non-profit organizations like labor unions and farm co-operatives must file financial reports with the U. S. treasury for the first time under the new tax law.

Bitterly opposed by the groups involved, financial reports were made mandatory by congress acting after complaints of many private companies that some of the non-profit organizations were in competition with them. Reports also could enable congress to look into disposition of labor union funds.

Although the treasury has yet to draw specific regulations governing the reports, the law calls for specific statements of gross income, receipts and disbursements, and other information that may be deemed necessary. Organization officers will be charged with supplying all of the data.

WAR DEATHS

During 1943 American life insurance companies paid out nearly 42 million dollars in death benefits under 31,600 civilian policies owned by members of the army, navy and merchant marines. About 14,000 men had been killed in action.

Payments on claims of servicemen accounted for about 4 per cent of all death claims for the year. The 1943 settlements bring the aggregate sum since the start of the war to close to 60 million dollars, paid out on 43,500 policies.

$40,000 Bull

Mrs. William E. Barton of Chicago holds reins on Prince of Sunbeam, grand champion bull of the National Aberdeen-Angus show, bought at $10,000 for breeding at an auction at Chicago's stockyards by Ralph L. Smith, Kansas City, Mo.

Runners-up to Prince Eric were Brian B. VII, which sold for $30,000, and Prince Quality also of Sunbeam, which was bought for $10,800.

HOGS:

Prices Up

Because snowstorms impeded shipments and prospering farmers were in better position to hold hogs, 20 major pig markets recently received lowest receipts in six months while prices rose to the highest point in four months.

At the Chicago yards, nearly all classes of hogs shared in the price upswing, the average rising to $13.85, with 200 to 250 pound stock netting $14.10, and good 270 to 350 pound butchers bringing $13.05. Even some of the lightest hogs went up 50.

In the cattle market, demand increased for butcher stock, such as beef cows, canners and cutters, with prices strong to 25 higher. The scant supplies of sheep and lambs went quickly, with the best ending at $16.35, and old ewes bringing up to $0.

I SWAPPED an idle appliance for War Stamps

...and ended "Gloomy Saturday" for a war worker

1. Mrs. Jones does double duty as a war plant worker and a housewife. And on Saturday afternoon she does her laundry. For a long time, she couldn't buy a washing machine for love or money. Washing wore her to a frazzle. It was "Gloomy Saturday" every week for her.

2. On the other hand, I had an old electric washer I no longer used. You see, my sons are in the service, and there's just my husband John and I now—so I send my laundry out. After the war, I am going to get a brand new machine. So there was no sense in cluttering the house with the old one.

3. One day, I saw a sign in my electric dealer's window—"SWAP idle appliances for war stamps." An idea! I traded him my washer, an old iron, and an electric heater for oodles of stamps. I exchanged the stamps for bonds, which will some day help me buy a post-war washer.

4. So-o-o, the dealer had a washer for Mrs. Jones. He fixed it up, then phoned her the good news. She almost shouted with joy. Now on Saturdays, she's happy as a lark. You, too, can help make a war worker happy by swapping your idle appliances for War Stamps.

How yours truly got out of the "ower class"

I USED TO BE the kind of a guy who was always on the owing end of the deal.

I owed on the wedding ring. I owed on the house and the car and the furniture.

If I was even with the grocer, I owed the gas man. If I was even with the gas man, I owed the grocer. Golly, I got tired of it.

But, it's all different now!

After Pearl Harbor, I started buying War Bonds on the Payroll Saving Plan. Every pay day, I lent 10% of my pay to Uncle Sam. Knew he needed it to win the war... and this Payroll Plan was the simple, easy way to do my part.

What's more, it's automatic. Keeps me buying Bonds regularly, instead of forgetting and frittering away the money.

Well, sir, I soon found out I could afford putting this money in Bonds. I'm making better money these days, and there's a darn sight fewer things for me and the missus to spend that money on. So, I'm actually coming out even, Bonds and all.

And the other night, fingering over those nice crisp War Bonds, I said to the missus: "For once," I said, "we got somebody owing us money. Uncle Sam! He's promising to pay us back $4.00 for every $3.00 we put in these Bonds. And, just between you and me and the lamp post, there's no surer promise in the world."

"My," said the missus, "why don't we try to buy more of those Bonds out of your pay? I could do some paring down. Let's see if we can't make it 15% instead of 10%."

We did it, by golly! AND SO CAN YOU!

Let's all KEEP BACKING THE ATTACK!
